CONSTITUTIONAL POSITION

Mandate, Authority, and Boundary

Decision rights, councils, reserved matters, and recorded authority

Governance exists to make authority explicit before systems act and reversible after systems change.

Purpose

Translate the Charter into day-to-day decision rights for the Founding Board, Reserve Committee, operators, reviewers, safety councils, and emergency officers.

Authority

Defines approvals, quorum, conflicts, reserved matters, delegated limits, evidence requirements, amendment paths, and recorded dispositions.

Boundary

Does not create authority merely through title, brand, token holding, model confidence, or interface access. Actual authority follows the controlling instrument and recorded state.

No decision without an accountable owner, an evidence packet, a scope, a dissent path, and a review or expiry date.

OPERATING CONSTITUTION

Six Non-Negotiable Laws

The framework remains legible under speed, scale, novelty, and pressure.

Authority is explicit

Every power has a source, scope, duration, delegate, and revocation path.

Reserved matters stay reserved

Irreversible commitments, major rights transfers, constitutional changes, and broad deployment require elevated approval.

Conflicts are disclosed

Material economic, technical, personal, and model-related conflicts are recorded before deliberation.

Dissent is preserved

Minority and red-team findings remain in the decision record and cannot be averaged away.

Decisions expire

Freshness, review dates, dependency changes, incidents, and new evidence can reopen authority.

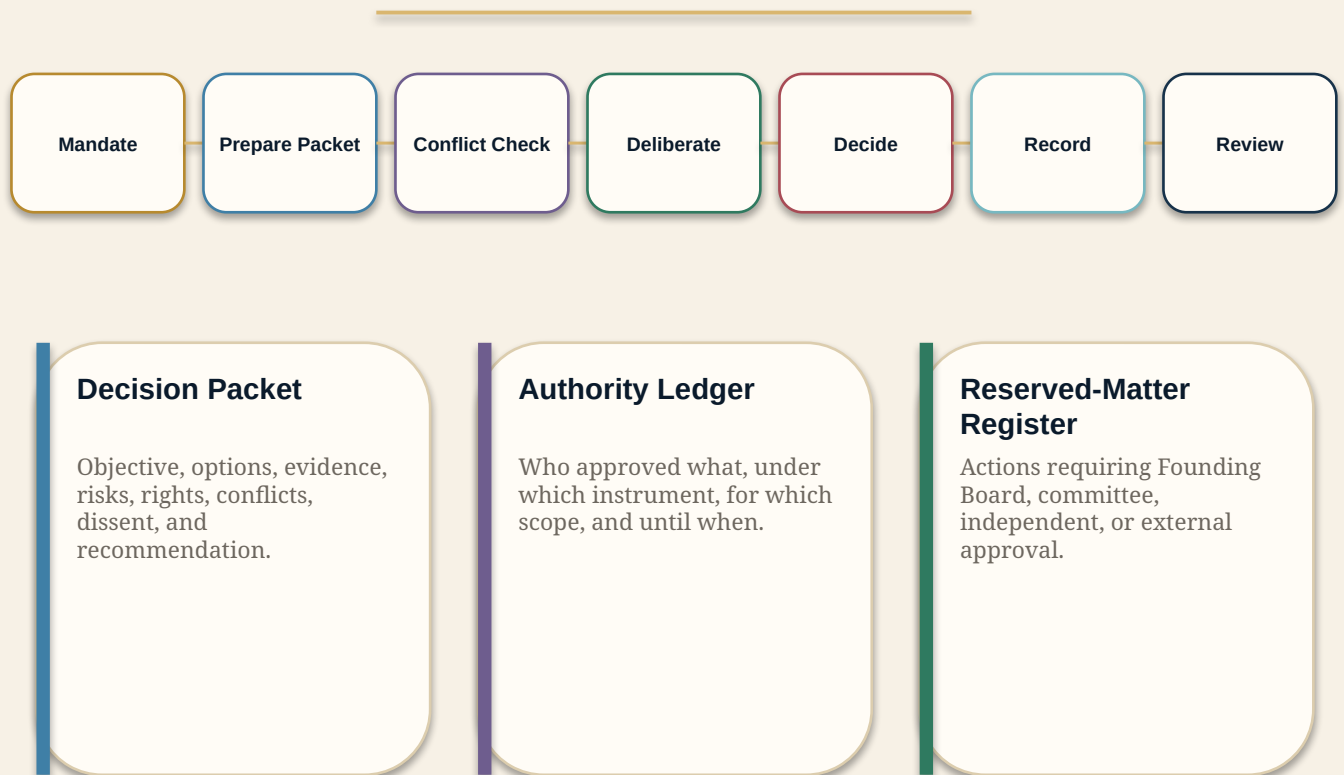

Emergency power is bounded

Pause and containment can be rapid; reactivation requires a fresh recorded gate.

INSTITUTIONAL MACHINERY

Objects, Lifecycle, and Decision Gates

The operating surface converts policy into attributable state transitions.

Can an independent reader determine why the action was authorized, by whom, for what scope, and how it can be stopped?

BOARD CONTROL

Metrics, Failure Modes, and the First 90 Days

Measure the institution by evidence, attributable value, and reversible authority.
